SUPER: VALUES IN ACTION

Jessica, Earth Scientist, Chevron

I feel that my biggest accomplishment as an earth scientist at Chevron is actually through my opportunities to mentor. That's new hires and also when I travel overseas to do work, I'm expected to mentor the local scientists. Part of making us better scientists is this diversity of thought in background and education.

It's always a give and take – I'm always learning something from my mentees and I feel that I stand on the shoulders of the scientists that mentored me and I hope to provide shoulders for those that come after me and those who I'm able to mentor.
