The Power of Human Energy

Chevron is one of the world's leading integrated energy companies, with subsidiaries that conduct business across the globe. The company's success is driven by the ingenuity and commitment of approximately 60,000 employees who are engaged across the energy spectrum.

Through its Australian subsidiary, Chevron has been present in Australia for more than 50 years. Chevron Australia operates the Gorgon Project, the Wheatstone Project and the Barrow and Thevenard Island oilfields. The company is a foundation partner in the North West Shelf Venture and the Browse LNG development, as well as a significant investor in exploration and appraisal activities offshore north-western Australia, one of four global focus areas for Chevron.

Developing Vital Energy Resources

The development of Australia's largest gas resource, the Greater Gorgon area gas fields, located off the north-west coast of Western Australia, will generate a new source of wealth for Australia. The Gorgon Project, along with the development of Chevron's wholly owned Wheatstone gas field, also located off the north-west coast of Australia, are key elements of Chevron's gas commercialisation strategy.

Chevron Australia is at a unique point in its history and with these exciting growth projects and ongoing exploration activities come genuine opportunities for career development and progression.

Be Part of the Team that Brings the World Vital Energy

Chevron Australia is experiencing rapid growth. The Australian business unit has been increasing its workforce substantially in the past two years and this strong growth is expected to continue in the future.

The key drivers behind continued workforce expansion will come from commercialising the Gorgon and Wheatstone Projects, as well as Chevron's vigorous exploration and appraisal program offshore north-western Australia. As these and other projects mature, Chevron anticipates an ongoing need to recruit talented oil and gas professionals.

Human Energy in Action

"I joined Chevron as a geoscientist three years ago and have worked on a number of major projects and had exposure to different parts of the business outside of my technical speciality - something which is very much encouraged. Chevron offers excellent training, an inclusive company culture and a variety of exciting opportunities both here in Australia and overseas."

- James, Chevron Australia employee.
